

Has your approach to performance management adapted adequately?

Are your planning processes designed to with the nature of your goals in mind?

Are people and behaviours
central considerations in your planning and performance management
processes?

What are the challenges ahead?

So what, now what for your performance management and planning?

